Female Veterans Symposium “Care After Trauma”

Contributed by Phyllis Maynard

Now in the planning stages, a Female Veterans Symposium 2013 — “Care After Trauma”. The objective of this one-day seminar is to address the complicated issues Female Veterans face in their lives as they return home from active duty military service, that have placed shadows over their lives. Pre-registration is open now for this June 27th special event.

These issues are very challenging. They are as follows: Military Sexual Trauma (MST), Homelessness and Homelessness with Children, Physical Disabilities, Barriers to Employment, Mental Disabilities, Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD), Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI), Environmental Harassment (workplace, hostile, gender), Lack of Advocacy, and Lack of Knowledge about State and Federal Laws and Resources.

It is our hope that a seminar such as this for the Franklin, Vance, Warren, and Granville County areas will educate, empower, and encourage females to face their individual challenges and move to the next step in their individual recovery.

In order to have a successful first event, we must be able to document to the agencies we have asked to come out to make the presentations, that there is an audience interested in this seminar. If you are a female veteran who will be interested in attending this symposium please contact Phyllis Maynard at 252.432.9376 and leave a message or email nc97chapterserviceofficer@yahoo.com with the following information: name, address, telephone numbers, email address (speak slowly and spell out the email address on voice mail), whether you are OEF/OIF/OND, Desert

Storm, Gulf War, Vietnam veteran, etc., and whether you have a concern about homelessness. For the event, please bring DD-214 Discharge Papers and a resume.

We are pre-registering participants to present the numbers to the agencies to demonstrate that we have contacted and communicated with a group of female veterans from the surrounding rural areas who are excited about speakers coming in to be of assistance to them. We would like to be able to report at least 100 pre-registered participants. Our objective is to make this a very informative and pleasant experience for each of you.

The Female Veterans Symposium 2013 — “Care After Trauma” is a free seminar with refreshments available throughout the day, scheduled for Thursday, June 27th at the Vance-Granville Community College Civic Center from 8am to 4:30pm. The address for GPS users is 200 Community College Road, Henderson, NC 27537 (traveling I-85, get off on Exit 209, Poplar Creek Road).

Gary M. Blue, Local Veterans Employment Representative for Franklin, Vance, and Warren counties working out of the respective North Carolina JobLink Career Center offices, and Phyllis E. Maynard, Disabled American Veterans Service Officer working in the Vance County area and representing the Disabled American Veterans National Service Office out of Winston-Salem, North Carolina are planning this event.

Remember Those Who Served

Memorial Day, May 27th this year, serves as a day for remembering the men and women who died while serving in the United States Armed Forces. Many have given their all for the country they loved.

Memorial Day is a time for visiting the graves of lost friends and relatives. Many local residents go to the cemetery and place wreaths to honor their fallen loved ones. Memorial Day is a federal holiday in the United States. It is a designated day to remind US residents to pay their respects to all Americans who have died in all wars.

Memorial Day Weekend, many businesses give their employees time off from work. Families gather, sometimes holding annual reunions to reconnect with far-away family members and friends.

Celebrating Memorial Day this year, hopefully you and your loved ones can take time together to reflect on those lost, and those still in harms way.

A Little Bit of History

Bunn Museum Day was Fun for All

The Bunn Museum Day held in May featured old farm implements, newspaper clippings, photos, and yearbooks. Many residents brought in old photos and household items to show. There was everything from vacuum cleaners to phones, hair dryers to golf clubs, and various sporting items of different ages.

Some of the Bunn High students dropped by, receiving Certificates for participation. Students also wrote essays about the town, and prepared a time capsule that will be displayed at future Bunn Centennial 2013 events.

Farmer Darrell Cash brought a large display of farm equipment, and explained to visitors how each piece was used. Some were for breaking the land, others for fixing the rows, and more for plowing or setting out plants. As hard as farming is now, from looking at these tools it was even harder way back when.

Overall there was a lot of Bunn’s history gathered, and shared, for this special day. Hopefully those who visited the displays at Common Grounds Coffee (and fun) House learned a bit about Bunn and Franklin County as things used to be.

Movie Review of the Issue

By Kay Whatley, Editor

Star Trek Into Darkness

I have to say, I’m a Star Trek fan. I grew up watching the original series, and watched the later shows and movies with my children as they grew up. My husband is a fan too, and considers himself a “trekkie”. You don’t have to be a fan to enjoy the ride with this action-packed and plot-thick film. Our teen and pre-teen went with us, and liked the movie.

For those who don’t follow Star Trek, the movie, Star Trek, that came out in 2009 was set before the original 1960s series. It was the crew as young men and women, just starting out. The just-released Star Trek Into Darkness is a continuation of the young crew’s adventures.

As a long-time fan, I was pleased with how the 2009 movie kept the same feeling, terminology, and characters — and kept them true to the original series’ flavor. Star Trek Into Darkness does this as well, making it easy for existing fans to enjoy the inside jokes and “aha” moments. If you’re not really “into” Star Trek, you may enjoy this as a well done science fiction film, with likeable characters, mystery, and a quality story.

Even if you don’t know who Khan is, or the Botany Bay, the story comes through as new and exciting. For those familiar with the old story line, you may be pleasantly shocked. If the story of Captain Kirk and Khan is all new to you, I think you’ll love watching them match wits!

Summer Camps Offer Much To Do While School Is Out

Learning, Fun & Fitness

Gymnastics, science, martial arts, religion, and the arts: every child’s interests are unique. Luckily, many organizations and businesses offer summer day camps and parents can find the right experiences for each child.

Day camps vary from a few hours to all day. Depending on the program offered, fees may be per day, per week, or for multiple weeks. Parents may send children for a day to some camps, or for a little more could send them for many days during summer break.

In addition to offerings by town Parks & Rec Departments, music schools, karate schools, and museums provide daytime educational camps. Many run one week at a time, allowing parents to choose how long to send their children. Each week brings an opportunity for fun and learning.

Sports camps range from martial arts to gymnastics, basketball to soccer, baseball to golf, and swimming to tennis. Whether a child has experience, or will be learning a new skill for the summer, camps are accepting registrations now.

Parents throughout Eastern NC may pick and choose a variety of fun and fitness activities for their children.

To find options, one might start by check with local businesses currently offering evening and weekend classes matching childrens’ interests. From there, a wealth of options may be found at a range of daily or weekly rates.

The Strange-ness

Retractable Claws

House cats have retractable claws. So do the big cats like lions and jaguars. They use them during their natural climbing and hunting activities, and as part of marking their territory with their paw-pad glands. These sharp claws are not just for pulsing into your leg while you pet them.

Ever seen a cat “sharpening” its claws on a tree — or a couch? Cats may claw and shred things when they are anxious, but most often what they are doing is wearing down the outer “sheath” of their claws to expose a good sharp point! This is necessary as their claws grow, just as humans sometimes need to clip their fingernails.

In addition to cats, some mongoose relatives have retractable, or partly retractable, claws. The fossa from Madagascar have a kind of retractable claw. Some civets and genets also have retractable claws. While these animals look kind of like a cat, they aren’t really.

Many other claw-carrying animals and insects cannot retract their claws. Dogs, crabs and beetles are examples of these. Cats are mostly unique in their ability to hide or show these sharp implements as needed.
