Community Thanksgiving Dinner in Wendell

The Wendell Woman's Club hosts a community dinner on Thanksgiving, November 27, 2014.

The event is at 10 Cypress Street, Wendell, beginning at 1pm. Residents and area churches are encouraged to bring dishes to help feed our community.

Food options to bring include: turkey, ham, green beans, collards, potatoes, potato salad, corn, gravy, stuffing, cranberries, beverages, and holiday pies — including sweet potato pie, pumpkin pie, apple pie, or chocolate pie.

For more information, contact Brenda Hinton-Jones at 919.592.2669.

Rock your Holidays - Marketing Workshop

It's that time of year – the hustle and bustle of the holiday season is upon us. There is no better time to reach out to your customers, bring new clients in, and boost repeat and referral business!

Whether you have a retail shop, provide a specialized service or work business-to-business, or have a nonprofit in need of outreach, this workshop will provide simple, practical tips for closing out 2014 on a high note. Participants will learn:

- How to leverage social media to engage new and existing customers
- Which promotions and special offers work for your business right now
- best ways to drive response from your emails and social posts
- Easy strategies to keep your offers looking good on a cell phone or tablet
- How to create and manage a campaign for the holidays (it's easier than you might think!)
- Create a simple playbook to plan your marketing activities all season long

• Most importantly, how to measure your results to get more out of your effort along the way

This workshop is scheduled for December 2, 2014, from 3pm to 4:30pm.

Presented by Melanie Diehl, with Your Social Media Gal. Register with the Knightdale Chamber of Commerce. Contact 919.266.4603.

New Knightdale Greenway Honored for Design Excellence

Released by Brian Bowman,
Town of Knightdale

The Town of Knightdale has earned an “Excellence in Design” award from the American Council of Engineering Companies of NC (ACEC/NC) for its new Mingo Creek Trail Greenway. The professional association recognized the Town and the Raleigh engineering firm that designed the greenway, Stewart, Inc.

The greenway opened in August after about three years of design and construction. The Mingo Creek Greenway connects at the Neuse River pedestrian bridge to the city of Raleigh’s New River Trail Greenway. Together, the two offer access to dozens of miles of winding, scenic venues.

“We were proud to partner with Stewart to deliver this amenity for the community and to be recognized by ACEC/NC for the team effort,” said Fred Boone, Knightdale Town Engineer. “Our community has really embraced the greenway; we’re glad to see people enjoying it.”

The greenway is consistent with the Knightdale Town Council’s “S.T.A.G.E.” mission; the acronym stands for Safe, Transparent, Active, Green and Engaged.

“This greenway is exactly the kind of amenity that enhances quality of life for our current residents and helps us attract new residents,” said Knightdale Mayor Russell Killen. “People want to have access to great amenities these days, and this greenway is the perfect way to explore the beautiful area around Knightdale.”

The Mingo Creek Trail Greenway was funded in part by grants from the Wake County Open Space funds and the Federal Highway Administration’s Surface Transportation Program.

The American Council of Engineering Companies of North Carolina (ACEC/NC) is a professional association of nearly 200 member firms in NC, employing over 6,500 professional engineers, technicians and scientists. ACEC/NC is a member organization of the American Council of Engineering Companies in Washington DC.

The American Council of Engineering Companies (ACEC) is the national organization for state organizations and is the largest national association of engineering firms engaged in the independent practice of consulting engineering. ACEC has over 5,000 member firms in the 50 states, employing over 300,000 professionals, technicians, scientists and support personnel.

Shades of Grey

Some situations are viewed in black and white; right and wrong. Yet, many people think situations also have a grey area where solutions are not so easily discerned. This is about the choices people make, and the thought process they go through to arrive at decisions.

Consider: Submitted for Discussion

You’re at a Black Friday event and waiting in line for a TV. You have been in line for about four hours, and a guy in front of you has been standing there too. It seems like every 20 to 30 minutes, he has someone come up and talk to him, and then they mysteriously end up getting in line.

Now people are talking under their breath but not saying anything to him. You see at least four people who have jumped in line with this guy.

What do you think you would do? Do you think that you would tell a manager? Do you think that you would get out of line to find a manager after waiting several hours? Or do you think you would be more likely to say nothing?

Wendell Wonderland featuring Lake Myra Christmas Lights

Released by Town of Wendell

The Town of Wendell is excited to host the third annual holiday event this season entitled “Wendell Wonderland.” One of the largest holiday light shows in the State of North Carolina moved from its former location on Lake Myra Road to Downtown Wendell in 2012.

Wendell Wonderland is open to the public, located in historic downtown at the corner Cypress Street and Third Street (10 S. Cypress) in the Town of Wendell.

Wendell Wonderland will come alive beginning on November 22 at 6pm with the Lake Myra Christmas light show. The light show runs nightly through December 31, weather permitting. Event hours are 6-10pm Sundays-Thursdays, and 6-11 pm Fridays-Saturdays.

Thousands of people have visited the Lake Myra light display show each year since its inception and the Town of Wendell received an increased number of visitors at the new location. Improved access and ample parking make it easier for people in the region to visit this unique and spectacular holiday light show and events in downtown Wendell! The location is 10 S Cypress Street in Wendell. Call 919.365.6318 to find out more.

The Final Indian War in America about to Begin

By Tim Giago, an Oglala Lakota,
Editor & Publisher of Native Sun News.

South Dakota's Republican leadership of John Thune and Kristi Noem always march lockstep with the other Republican robots. Neither of them care that South Dakota's largest minority, the people of the Great Sioux Nation, diametrically oppose the Pipeline and they also fail to understand the determination of the Indian people to stop it.

The House vote was 252-161 favoring the bill. The bill was sponsored by Rep. Bill Cassidy (R-La.) who is trying to take the senate seat from Democrat Mary Landrieu. They are headed for a senate runoff on December 6 and Landrieu has expressed a strong support of the bill in hopes of holding her senate seat.

Two hundred twenty-one Republicans supported the bill which made the Republican support unanimous while 31 Democrats joined the Republicans. One hundred sixty-one Democrats rejected the bill.

Progressive newsman and commentator for MSNBC, Ed Schultz, traveled to the Rosebud Indian Reservation in South Dakota this year to meet with the Indian opponents of the Pipeline. Firsthand he witnessed the absolute determination of the Indian nations to stop construction of the Pipeline.

He witnessed their determination and reported on it. Except for Schultz the national media shows no interest and apparently has no knowledge of how the Indian people feel about the Pipeline nor do they comprehend that they will go to their deaths stopping it. What is wrong with the national media when it comes to Indians?

As an example of the national media's apathy, the Lakota, Nakota and Dakota have turned their backs on the $1.5 billion dollars offered to them for settling the Black Hills Claim and although they are among the poorest of all Americans, the national media does not consider this news.

Why do they protest the XL Pipeline? Because the lands the Pipeline will cross are Sacred Treaty Lands and to violate these lands by digging ditches for the pipelines is blasphemes to the beliefs of the Native Americans.

Violating the human and religious rights of a People in order to create jobs and low cost fuel is the worst form of capitalism. Will the Pipeline bring down the cost of fuel and create thousands of jobs?

President Barack Obama has blocked the construction of the Pipeline for 6 years and he said, "I have constantly pushed back against the idea the somehow the Keystone Pipeline is either this massive jobs bill for the United States or is somehow lowering gas prices. Understand what this project is. It is providing the ability of Canada to pump their oil, send it through our land, down to the Gulf, where it will be sold everywhere else. That doesn't have an impact on U. S. gas prices."

In the meantime Senator Landrieu conceded that it is unlikely that the Senate and the House will have the two-thirds majority needed to override an Obama veto.

Wizipan Little Elk of the Rosebud Sioux Tribe and a coalition of tribal leaders from across the Northern Plains and the United States have pulled no punches on how they intend to fight the Pipeline to the death if that is the only way to stop it.

South Dakota's elected leadership has totally ignored the protests of the largest minority residing in their state. They have also totally underestimated and misunderstood the inherent determination of the Indian people. This is a huge mistake that will have national implications and it is taking place right under their Republican noses.

What is even worse South Dakota's media has also buried its collective heads in the sand even though Native Sun News has been reporting on the Keystone XL Pipeline since 2006. Award winning Health and Environment Editor for Native Sun News, Talli Nauman, has been at the journalistic forefront of this environmental disaster about to happen from day one and she has been rewarded by the South Dakota Newspaper Association with many awards for her yearly series of articles on this most important topic. Until this issue became a political football, the rest of South Dakota's media had been silent.

The Keystone XL Pipeline that is being pushed by TransCanada may well be the beginning of the final war between the United States government and the Indian Nations. A word of caution to TransCanada and the U. S. Government: please do not disregard the determination of the Indian people when they say they will fight this Pipeline to their deaths if need be. They mean it!

When asked if he truly thought that a handful of Indians could stop the construction of the Pipeline, Little Elk simply said, "Try us!"

Black Friday Shopping

Stores are kicking into high gear for Black Friday, though this year fewer big-box stores are opening on Thursday, during Thanksgiving Day. Small local shops and big box stores will be vying for your spending money through the weekend.

Black Friday sales offer Friday specials, though sometimes run until Sunday. Retailers can take advantage of what is a long weekend for some, and what is often a time of family gatherings.

Gift shopping may be the hook, but all types of items are expected to be on sale, which means shoppers may pick up some deals for their household too.

Production Converges on Durham Bringing Murder and Mystery

By Kay Whatley, Editor

REVIEW: Ghost Brothers of Darkland County

A mystery-filled, surprising, and rockin' good musical is touring the country. This unique production came from collaboration by an unusual team: a book author, a rock musician, and a Grammy-award winning songwriter/producer.

Writer Stephen King, musician John Mellencamp, and producer T Bone Burnett worked to create a musical now touring the country called Ghost Brothers of Darkland County. Billed as a southern gothic, supernatural musical, the story line follows Joe McCandless and his family, as they struggle to stop the cycle of violence started by Joe's older brothers, long ago.

The Durham Performing Arts Center (DPAC) show was November 14, 2014, and featured Billy Burke as Joe McCandless and Gina Gershon as his wife, Monique McCandless.

This production kept my eyes riveted to the stage as each character, or group, came forward with new pieces to the family puzzle. The songs set the tone, at times uplifting, at others haunting, but always telling more of the McCandless' history. Characters surrounding the main action had their own songs to sing, at times so comically that the audience roared with laughter. (Even on the way home, our group was repeating phrases and enjoying a second laugh.)

This is a musical that tells a compelling, disturbing tale set to music that all ages may appreciate. The mix of rock and country kept us focused on the story through both Acts.

Special mention for the vocal and acting prowess of young Zac Ballard, who plays Young Joe. That young man has some pipes!

Mellencamp fans will appreciate the music and find new songs to love. Fans of Stephen King will appreciate the quick turns the story takes. It will surprise you! T Bone Burnett's production talents show in the staging of the various McCandlesses, Zydeco Cowboy, and The Shape. To know how these pieces fit together so well, go and see the play!

I would see Ghost Brothers of Darkland County again. My husband and sister, who attended the DPAC production with me, agree that this is a play we would all want to see again.

Now the only mystery that remains is, when will it return to NC? November 14th was the play's one-night-only DPAC performance. Remaining 2014 dates are skirting the East Coast and moving to the US mid-west and on to California.

Wildlife Spectacle at Lake Mattamuskeet

Released by City of Rocky Mount

On November 22, 2014, the public is invited to join the Children's Museum and Science Center of Rocky Mount for an outdoor adventure at the Mattamuskeet National Wildlife Refuge in Hyde County, NC.

Naturalist Ricky Davis will lead the guided tour of the wildlife spectacle that is Lake Mattamuskeet. The refuge's 50,000 acres of woods and marshlands include the largest natural lake in North Carolina. The trip is timed to be at peak season, so attendees will enjoy a spectacular show of thousands of waterfowl - swans, geese and ducks - as well as many other species.

"If you've never been, you owe it to yourself to join us and see what makes Mattamuskeet special," said Museum Curator Leigh White. "This area in eastern North Carolina is considered to be one of the most important wildlife refuges in the country, and the wealth of wildlife and scenic beauty make the journey to this destination worthwhile."

Attendees must bring their own binoculars, camera, and bag lunch, and must wear appropriate clothing and footwear. For recommendations on appropriate clothing, attendees are encouraged to check the weather forecast in advance of the trip.

The trip will depart at 7 a.m. on Saturday, November 22, 2014, and will return around 5 p.m. Departure and arrival will take place in the parking lot at The Imperial Centre for the Arts and Sciences, located at 270 Gay Street in downtown Rocky Mount.

The trip is free for ages 10 to adult. Children under age 15 must be accompanied by an adult. To attend, pre-registration is required by 12 p.m. on Friday, November 21, 2014. For information or to register, contact Leigh White at 252.972.1367.

Dr. Nicholas' Corner: The Joy of Hobbies, Part III

Contributed by By Nicholas
Padiaditakis, MD, DLFAPA

Edited by Nicole Padiaditakis

Before we go to the art and relative complexities of wind surfing I will like first to take the time and talk about my favored one at present, which is available for any one at any time and for the asking.

This is the joy of walking in the woods

Our State is blessed no matter in what part you live, there is joy to be have in taking the time and develop the habit of regularly wandering in our woods. Our State has everything; the vast vista and wonder of our mountains with the snow bound windy mount Mitchell to the tropical sweetness of cape Fear area.

I walk the woods myself, often. I go there to exercise and breath the air with the forest smells and look and observe the marvel of life all around me! Just think; ALL life is made up with the very same building block. It is called DNA it is made up of four chemicals which like letters, write a long different story / instructions for each living kind -including us! They make up a long, long microscopic double twisted ladder! This long ladder like a string, is wound up in a ball which if was to be un-winded and magnified for us to see with the naked Eye it will be miles long! That's all. This is a fact. My grandson; a biochemist unwinds the ball and splashes the string differently for his experiments! So when you decide to go in the woods next time, think; every living thing you see around you, the grass, the trees, the buzzing bugs, the jumpy deer and the peaceful cows are all... Us! only differently made because of the instructions! So when myself there, I look and marvel! and feel peaceful and glad for the precious time we all have with our lives.

This give me also an opportunity to re-think the big picture. Life! My life, the meaning the significance, and the things that really matter; our loved ones, our friends, the good you receive from others and try to give back.

So if you decide to do it. When there; look around you, stare at the leaves, and little squirrels, the startled deer and the flapping butterfly and then take time to think about these things. When back you will feel invigorated and more reasonable balanced and with blood pressure now down, peaceful and ready once again for the day's routines.

Little Bits

Chuckle of the Issue

A boy was assigned a paper on childbirth and asked his parents “how was I born?”

“Well, honey,” said his mother, bashfully. “The stork brought you to us.”

“Oh. Well, how did you and daddy get born?” he asked.

“The stork brought us too.”

“Well, how were grandpa and grandma born?” he persisted.

“Well darling, the stork brought them too!” said his mother, by now starting to squirm a little.

Several days later, the boy handed in his paper to the teacher who read with confusion the opening sentence: “This report has been very difficult to write due to the fact that there hasn’t been a natural childbirth in my family for three generations.”
